

Dear Investor!

The information provided on this website cannot be considered as investment advisory activity, is not an individual investment advice, is not a provision of advisory services in respect of securities or transactions with them and (or) a conclusion of contracts that are derivative financial instruments by providing an individual investment advice in the meaning of International Law. The mentioned financial instruments and possible services described on this website cannot be considered as individual investment advice and may not be suitable for the respective client based on his / her investment profile. The information does not constitute an offer to enter into an investment transaction or an individual investment advice agreement and is for informational purposes only. The placement of this information on the site does not create any obligations for LOCK STOCK a.s., nor the user (the reader of the information). The information provided on this website may be inaccurate or out of date at the time of reading. Past fund's yield does not guarantee future yield. LOCK STOCK a.s. are not engaged in individual investment consulting within the meaning of International Law. Any information provided on this website cannot be considered as individual investment advice.

Sincerely,

LOCK STOCK a.s. Team